Training

All jobs involve some sort of training:

- (a) "On the job" training that helps you to do the work on a day to day basis, or
- (b) Training that also leads to a recognised qualification such as an NVQ (National Vocational Qualification)

An Apprenticeship is a job with training at NVQ level 2 or 3.

Apprenticeships include improving your "Key Skills" such as communication, numeracy & IT, which are relevant for all jobs and technical certificates related to the type of work.

* Some training providers offer a Programme led Pathway. This means that you would start by working towards the Key Skills and Technical Certificates at the training centre to prepare you for moving on to an apprenticeship.

NVQs are different to GCSEs, because they are very practical and relate to the job you are learning to do. They can be gained in different ways, such as one day per week at college, in blocks of training, once per month in a training centre, etc.

Training Centres

NVQs in Carpentry and Joinery will include the following:

- Characteristics and uses of timbers, adhesives and abrasives
- Construction procedures e.g. types of joints and use of the plumbing level
- How to assemble and fix different doors, windows and their frames
- The use of different tools, machines and scaffolding
- The construction of stairs, floors, roofs, walls and fittings such as shelving and cupboards
- How to do drawings and calculations

Wood machining will include:

- Setting up and maintaining machinery
- Measuring and cutting wood accurately
- Assembling components

Don't forget ...

Full and part-time courses are offered at local colleges.

Time Off for Study or Training

If you are 16 or 17 years of age you have a right to paid time off work for study or training if:

- You are employed
- You did not obtain 5 GCSEs at grades A* - C or the equivalent (e.g. an Intermediate GNVQ)

The Government has given this right to young workers so that they can:

- Be given another chance to obtain recognised qualifications
- Be more valuable to employers

If you are not receiving training in your job then contact Connexions and ask to speak to someone about your "Right to Time Off for Study and Training"
